Sisterhood Membership Agreement

Community rules, privacy, and monthly membership terms

The Sisterhood is a Christ-centered community for adult women to continue growing through Scripture, prayer, encouragement, and practical reflection. This agreement includes the community rules on page 2 and the acknowledgment on page 3. It takes effect only when its details are completed and both parties sign. Viewing this copy, creating a profile, or making a payment is not a substitute for signing.

What membership includes

Membership provides access to the Sisterhood community, member conversations, available teachings and weekly practices, 30-day commitments, and a monthly live gathering as announced. Recordings are added as they become available. Participation is voluntary; members may choose what to share, decline an activity, or ask for a break. Membership does not include individual mentoring sessions, coach certification, or permission to teach CWP curricula.

This is Christian encouragement, biblical education, and discipleship. It is not psychotherapy, diagnosis, medical care, substance use treatment, or an emergency service. No spiritual, emotional, relational, health, or financial result is guaranteed. Do not use the community to replace professional care or urgent assistance.

Monthly price and renewal

The membership price is $30 USD per month. Only after you complete a separate Stripe subscription checkout will Stripe charge the payment method you authorize and renew the subscription monthly until canceled. The checkout shows the first charge and renewal terms, including any applicable tax, before you confirm. Signing this agreement alone does not charge you or authorize CWP to add another service, fee, or subscription.

Canceling and refunds

Cancel future renewal through Manage membership or by emailing hello@crownedwithpurpose.co from your membership email before the next renewal is processed. CWP will confirm receipt. Cancellation stops future renewal; there is no fixed 12-week commitment or cancellation fee. Access normally continues through the paid period unless safety-related restrictions apply.

Payments for an available membership period are nonrefundable for voluntary withdrawal, nonuse, or a change of mind; no prorated refund is promised, except as required by law. This does not limit rights concerning unauthorized charges or services CWP does not provide. If CWP ends a paid membership and cannot provide the remaining service, it will refund the unused portion. Price changes require clear notice and renewed authorization before a higher recurring charge.

Community rules: how we care for one another

Our shared posture is to listen with humility, speak truth with love, and encourage one another toward Christ. Read Ephesians 4:29 and James 1:19 in context. These rules apply to posts, comments, live gatherings, profiles, and contact arising through the Sisterhood.

1. Protect one another's stories

Keep members' stories within the group. Do not screenshot, copy, forward, quote, record, transcribe, or share another member's words, image, voice, or identifying information without specific permission. Do not upload community content to AI tools or other outside services. Share only what you are comfortable having other members see.

2. Share your own experience with care

Leave out identifying or sensitive details about children, family members, clients, and other people. Do not post payment details, private documents, or graphic content. You may request prayer without explaining the whole situation. Nobody is required to disclose trauma, confess publicly, or answer personal questions.

3. Encourage without controlling

Ask before offering advice. Offer Scripture gently and in context. Do not claim divine authority to pressure someone into a decision, demand obedience to you, shame a member, or discourage appropriate professional help. Harassment, threats, bullying, sexual advances, hateful abuse, and retaliation are not allowed.

4. Honor boundaries and the purpose of the group

No unsolicited private messages, promotion, sales pitches, fundraising, recruitment, spam, impersonation, or sharing access credentials. Ask before contacting someone outside the group and respect a refusal. Use one personal account and a respectful display name. Membership is for an adult participating for herself; it is not access for a family, payer, or organization.

5. Raise concerns privately

Report a concern to Reta at hello@crownedwithpurpose.co. Do not investigate or publicly accuse another member. This group is not monitored continuously. For immediate danger, contact local emergency services directly; do not wait for a reply here. These rules never prohibit lawful reporting, obtaining help, preserving evidence for a legitimate complaint, or disclosures required by law.

6. Moderation and care

CWP may remove content, restrict posting, or suspend or end access to address a serious safety concern or rule violation. Where appropriate, CWP will explain the concern privately and allow a response. Contact Reta to request review of a moderation decision. Membership cancellation and refunds remain governed by page 1 and applicable law.

Privacy, materials, and keeping your signed copy

Members and CWP can see information shared in the community. Although everyone agrees to protect it, CWP cannot guarantee another member's confidentiality or promise legal privilege for group conversations. CWP uses membership contact, signature, and payment-verification records for administration, access, safety, and legal obligations. Signed agreements and audit trails are kept in private CWP records, separate from the community feed. They are not shared with other members, sponsors, or payers merely because those people are connected to you.

CWP may make disclosures required by law or valid legal process, mandatory abuse reports, or disclosures necessary and permitted by law for a serious safety concern. Joining is not permission to use your story, name, image, or voice in marketing. Recording or publishing an identifiable participant requires separate informed permission. CWP teaching recordings must not include identifiable member contributions without that permission.

Materials are for personal member use while lawfully available. Their owners retain their rights. Do not sell, rebrand, distribute, or teach protected CWP materials without separate written authorization. This does not restrict Scripture, general ideas, your own experiences, public-domain content, fair use, or other rights that cannot lawfully be restricted.

Review and electronic signing

Review all three pages and ask questions before signing. DocuSign presents its electronic-record disclosure before you choose electronic signing. You may request a paper alternative, a copy, an email update, or withdrawal of future electronic-delivery consent at hello@crownedwithpurpose.co. Any paper-copy charge must be disclosed and agreed before it is incurred. Download and retain the completed agreement and completion certificate. Withdrawing electronic-delivery consent does not cancel an already signed agreement or a subscription; use the separate cancellation steps on page 1.

Acknowledgment and signatures

I confirm that I am at least 18 and joining for myself. I have read and agree to the membership terms and all community rules, understand the group-privacy limits, and may retain a copy. My signature does not authorize a payment without the separate Stripe checkout. Changes to material terms require notice and the affected parties' acceptance; this packet does not amend a different signed program agreement.
